But what if we want to run our thread in all the cores of a CPU. Isn't there any way to do this? A: It will depend on how you start the thread. If you say start the thread with thread start method on the JNI side you can use "java_jdk1.8.0_131/jre/lib/amd64/server/libjvm.so" to preserve the thread affinity. A thread's affinity mask is a set of CPUs on which it is allowed to run. A thread's affinity mask is set when the thread is started by the VM. A thread may have different affinity masks for different invocations. Take a look at thread daemon, I think it will be the most appropriate. Here you have a example of starting the thread in all the cores: We recently had the opportunity to talk to the developers behind Darkest Dungeon, Brian Heins and Sarah Anderson, as well as join them in a Q&A! We sat down with them to cover all sorts of topics, from their next major content patch coming with up a new character class in Player Trials, a new PC Controller perk, some subtle changes to the difficulty curve, rumors of post-endgame challenges, more DLC content, and more! To start, we asked
